Tom McDade has been declared a legal “Legend” by the Dallas Times Herald, “Mattox v. McDade: Tough Legends Collide” (August 14, 1983).

Tom has the presence and confidence of a man who knows how to get things done in the law. His esteemed almost 60-year career has involved him in virtually every type of case not only in Texas, but throughout the country. Tom is willing to do whatever his clients’ success demands, having fought big business, gone to battle for families and individuals, and served his country as a fighter pilot and officer in the United States Air Force.

Lawyers frequently have Tom appear as an expert witness in legal malpractice cases and cases involving attorneys’ fees. He is experienced in Alternative Dispute Resolution and has served numerous court appointments and party agreements as arbitrator (both neutral and party appointed) and as a mediator.

Tom was a senior partner at Fulbright & Jaworski and a member of the Senior Advisory Committee. After 30 years, Tom left Fulbright & Jaworski to help form McDade Fogler, LLP, where he practiced for over 15 years prior to joining Beck Redden.

REPRESENTATIVE EXPERIENCE

- Tom has prosecuted or defended cases for large and small corporations, small businesses, important business and sports leaders and for the common man. Tom also regularly defends intra-state & inter-state gas pipelines and has never lost a “take-or-pay” case .
- Tom has a winning track record and has been involved in numerous billion dollar and “Bet-the-Company” cases. His most notable victory did not involve money. Instead, it involved injunctive relief. In 1979, Tom successfully enjoined the United States of America, the then US Attorney General, (the Honorable Griffin Bell), the U.S. Secretary of Energy, and the US Attorney of the Southern District of Texas from seeking an indictment of oilman Albert B. Alkek, under a particular federal regulation. Such a result is and was unprecedented and is unique in American jurisprudence.
- In the case entitled the Houston Oilers v. John Matuzak, Tom challenged the NFL’s Standard Player Contract and in a 2-1 decision, the dissenting Justice found the NFL’s Standard Player Contract to be void because of unconscionability. The Houston Oilers were advised to mitigate the dissenting view and in exchange for not pursuing the matter further, the Oilers promptly traded John Matuzak to the Kansas City Chiefs in exchange for Curly Culp. Kansas City thereafter traded Matuzak to the Oakland Raiders and the lots of both Houston and Oakland changed for the better.
